

Empowering guidance on facing the past and discovering the joy of abundant life

According to the World Health Organization, hundreds of millions of people around the world struggle with emotional and relational issues, and do not have access to help. LifeCare is a response to this crisis, an empowering resource to help people find a new sense of healing, build on their strengths and gain new tools for their life that will release them to be who God created them to be.

For those seeking freedom from the past, personal growth in the present, and a life of purpose, LifeCare provides a helpful framework that empowers readers to step into the abundant life they have been made for, and lead others along that path too. For all who feel called to work on difficulties in their life and relationships, whether in counselling and pastoral care, or in small groups and other discipleship contexts, this book encourages healing and growth through community – in vulnerability and authenticity with others.

Bringing together discipleship practices, Christ-centered recovery skills and research-supported pastoral care exercises, LifeCare will guide you through the process of attending to your past, your thought life, emotions, behaviors and difficult circumstances to help you find the joy and purpose of abundant life – life to the full.
